TURN THE RASCALS OUT.

We do not think the Government can know of the extent to which members of its own party complain of the presence of Royalists in office. The Ministers may hear some of the prevailing criticism, but their apathy on the subject shows they do not hear it all. Many citizens who feel deeply about this matter hesitate to make a personal question of it as between themselves and the leaders of their cause. Others are content to endure the injustice of bearing arms to keep latent traitors on the salary list rather than disturb their party lines in the face of the enemy. A few men whose influence and good will are worth having are withdrawn from politics because of the disgust they feel at the statesmanship which pays thousands of dollars every month to men who would use them to turn their benefactors out of power. All these and the outspoken class constitute a great majority of the Annexation Club, upon the devotion and fealty of which the Government is forced to rely for its present and future existence.

Every department of the Hawaiian Government, with the possible exception of a few minor bureaus, is infested with partisans of the ex-Queen. After seven months and much wrangling, Cleghorn, Tripp and "Polonius" Carter have been sloughed off, but what is a corporal's guard to a regiment? There are a couple of battalions left, all of their members spies, all of them ready to snap at the hands that feed, every mother's son of them waiting for a chance to toss his greasy cap in the air at sight of the "Royal" standard and the woolly pate of restored regality. Are these the sort of people to be preferred by the Provisional Government to men who have borne arms in its defense? Are they more competent and trustworthy than those who stood ready to risk their lives to overturn a rotten monarchy and create an honest Government? If so, well and good. If not, why in the name of all the methods of Government and systems of politics hitherto divided in earth or heaven are these Royalists kept in office?

We ask the question now. Later it may be asked by the Annexation Club. We hear that there is a movement on foot to have twenty-five members call a mass meeting (under the authority conferred by the by-laws) to discuss this interesting and important question:

Resolved: That it is the duty of the Provisional Government to afford public aid and comfort to those who seek its overthrow, and to deny such aid and comfort to those upon whom it depends for protection.

The negative side of the debate will be taken by the Club.

ANNEXATION AND DEVELOPMENT.

Every Eastern mail which reaches this office brings letters from people whose minds are bent on making a home for themselves on these Islands. Some inquire about the healthfulness of the climate, others about the productions of the soil, still others want business, church or school data, and all lay stress upon the one important query: What are the prospects, from your point of view, to obtain a lasting and stable government? A typical letter came on the last steamer from a man who said: "I will move at once and buy coffee land if we are to have annexation. A return of the monarchy, which would probably mean hard times and more revolutions, could not tempt me. It is the same way with many other people I hear of."

It is undeniable that, if stable government could be secured under the American flag, the rush of immigration hither from the United States would be instant and great. The young, vigorous and bold among the American people have been moving west for two hundred years and more. They went from the New England coast to the valleys of Connecticut; they journeyed thence to the oak and maple forests of New York; the rolling country of Ohio tempted them, and then the prairies and timber tracts of Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. They covered the plains with lines of emigrant wagons, and when they reached the desert they reclaimed it. Nearly fifty years ago the vanguard came to the Pacific Coast and began to double back upon itself. There was nothing left beyond but the Hawaiian Isles, and these were cursed with a barbaric monarchy. Had they been under American jurisdiction then, they would now have a million population and a per capita rate of wealth far in excess of that which the United States Government imparted to conditions here when it signed the reciprocity treaty. The host which was baffled back by the sea from further westward progress; the multitude of eager spirits which are tired of the dull and profitless competitions of old communities; the farmers who are weary of fighting for a subsistence against arctic cold and the droughts of summer—all these would give their best and strongest to Hawaii as soon as the American flag had guaranteed this country just and stable laws, protection from turbulence at home and coercion coming from abroad, and a share in the gains to be had from the commercial policy of the United States.

The monarchy, after the McKinley bill passed, came to mean poverty and hard times coupled with extravagance and robbery. It was pregnant, withal, of revolutions. Should the impossible come to pass and the tenure of its leprous life be prolonged, it would be the last place on earth to which the blessings of peace, prosperity and material growth could devolve. All guide boards to good times point away from it and in the direction of the great republic.

If there was an atom of enlightened self interest among the Royalist leaders and their devoted following; if there was any of the wise patriotism which seeks to do what is best for one's country; if there were even a few grains of common sense in the heads of the men who do the selfish bidding of the ex-Queen, we should have almost a united party in Hawaii for annexation. By the success of that cause the merchant would have new business; the land-owner would see his values appreciate; the native need not lack for something to do; the city and towns would grow and the vacant land be cleared and planted. It will all come to pass in good time. But what then of the bipeds who have stood dumb and sullen in the way? What claim will they have upon the opportunities and the consideration of those who had won the way in spite of them?

It is remembered, apropos of the Boston's readiness to land her men, that Mr. Stevens' protectorate has never been withdrawn. The flag was removed, but the proclamation read in the name of the United States when the protectorate was formed has never been rescinded or recalled. That the omission was intentional is proved by a private remark of Minister Blount when he transferred his control of diplomatic affairs here to that staunch old American, Rear Admiral Joseph S. Skerrett.

The San Francisco Bulletin's statement that George P. Castle went to the Coast to export arms for Hawaii's men in buckram, hardly merits contradiction. If the Bulletin reporter had made even a cursory inquiry he would have learned three facts that destroy his elaborate surmising: First, that Mr. Castle is a man of sense; second, that he went to the Coast to have his eyes treated; third, that he belongs to a leading Annexationist firm.

HAD BEEN IN HONOLULU.
Extracts From Letters Containing Matters of Local Interest.

Mr. H. Exley of New Zealand and Australia is now at Vancouver visiting his son. He stopped off at Honolulu and was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Weedon and was charmed with Honolulu. He writes back to Mr. Weedon: "I would much like to have spent three months at Honolulu and if my health became established possibly a much longer time."

"By this new line of steamers from Vancouver to Australia, etc., we are getting apples and lemons from Australia, and bananas from Honolulu. My son is in the merchant grocery business and would much like to be put in communication with some wholesale shippers in Honolulu; could you ascertain for him the cost per hundred bunches of first class bananas and the freight of the same to Victoria? Will you please, as you may perchance have the opportunity, obtain and send me the name or names of reliable and honorable merchants in that branch of business?"

Miss C. Harrison, for seven years a missionary in Japan and en route to her home at Topeka, Kansas, for rest, stopped off with her adopted Japanese daughter and visited Mr. and Mrs. Weedon while the vessel was in port. She writes:

visit with you very pleasantly, and my descriptions of Honolulu have been so taking that all my friends want to go. My mother says she will go that far, but Cora and I feel we cannot give up Japan."

COMMENT ON HAWAII.

What Is Said About Island Affairs in the American Press.

If Japan shall insist Hawaii will be powerless to resist, unless she be backed up by some strong nation.—Chronicle.

He should be expelled from the Islands as a conspirator, and the Queen sent with him, addressed to Spreckels, "C. O. D."—Murat Halstead.

The proposition is squarely before the President. Will he accept it and rise to the occasion and the opportunity, or will he let both slip by and commit one of the greatest blunders of his official career?—Detroit Tribune.

Claus Spreckels, who has just returned from Honolulu, is of the opinion that Queen Liliuokalani will be restored to the throne. With Mr. Spreckels the wish is father to the thought. He does not want his sugar interests tampered with.—Red Bluff Sentinel.

The United States has recognized the Provisional Government, and will not be instrumental in overthrowing it. The administration, as now understood, is to establish a protectorate over the Islands and let the people regulate their domestic affairs to suit themselves.—Nevada State Journal.

Arizona and Hawaii are determined to get into the Union, and it looks now as though Hawaii had the better of Arizona in the race by several points. Somehow politicians always prefer to make voters out of aliens rather than give the privileges of citizenship to native-born people.—Phoenix Herald.

There is a movement among the radicals in Japan toward the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands. It would not be a difficult thing for Japan to annex these Islands, but she might find it a pretty hard job to hold them, should any first rate power be seized with a desire to get control of them.—Los Angeles Times.

No President so properly solicitous as Mr. Cleveland about his position in history, would have neglected a chance to distinguish his Administration by a measure of national expansion so to figure forever in the record of brilliant achievements alongside of the Louisiana purchase, the admission of Texas, and the annexation of Alaska.—New York Sun.

All is not peace and sweetness in the Democratic bosom about Hawaii. We see anti-annexation reports that in the name of the coffee-colored Queen, blood will flow. The alleged people are going to rise up and shed blood for the Queen, and incidentally for our patriotic and plentiful President. There is one path of peace, and that is annexation; and the Administration should walk therein.—Brooklyn Union.

The corner has been turned and now taxes are coming in, the bank deposits last month exceeding the withdrawals by $12,000. Bonds, too, are being sold, and the situation is such as to make the Government feel easy. Probably it is the only country in the world where a financial statement is published by authority each week. Everyone is asked to examine and see where the public moneys have gone to.—Professor Alexander.

In spite of the threats—of the newspapers—that Hawaii was losing hope of annexation and would turn soon to England for assistance Minister Thurston says: "I have not seen or heard of the first sign of weakening. On the contrary, in spite of the frantic efforts of Nordhoff and Spreckels to injure and embarrass the only effort has been to consolidate the Annexationists and rally practically the whole business community in support of the Government."—Napa Herald.

The spectacle of Claus Spreckels invoking the power of the United States Government, a republic, to restore a coarse, ignorant, superstitious queen to the Hawaiian throne would be diverting if it were not so serious. Americans in Hawaii, with their $31,000,000 of property interests seem to be little thought of. Is the edict about to be issued by the Administration that the republic must now stop growing? But there will be other administrations.—San Diego Sun.

While we are waiting for Mr. Cleveland and the Administration to decide upon some definite policy, Hawaii is being governed by a Provisional Government, and, for the most part, governed very well. At the same time there is the element of uncertainty constantly prevailing in Hawaii, and the possibility of trouble. It is due to the people of Hawaii that the United States should come to some decision without further delay, and render final judgment on the petition presented for annexation.—Chronicle.

The Hawaiian question has been lost from view in the multiplicity of financial disasters, but the arrival of Minister Blount with his report will soon revive the discussion. It is not known how the Minister stands on the annexation question since he has been very wary in his utterances, and it is not probable that the matter will be brought to the attention of Congress until the regular session, for the reason that Uncle Sam has trouble enough at home just now without settling grievances of American sugar planters.—Helena Independent.

BY AUTHORITY.

Whereas, by a Proclamation made June 30, 1893, the Right of the Writ of Habeas Corpus was suspended and Martial Law was declared to exist throughout the Districts of Hanalei and Waimea, on the Island of Kauai.

It is now further ordered that the Right of the Writ of Habeas Corpus is hereby restored and that Martial Law is hereby suspended in the said Districts from and after the 26th day of August, 1893.

FRANCIS M. HATCH,
Vice President of the Provisional Government of the Hawaiian Islands (Acting President).

By the Vice-President,
J. A. KING,
Minister of the Interior.

COUNCIL NOTICE.

PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT OF THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS.

COUNCIL CHAMBER,
Honolulu, August 24th, 1893.

At a meeting of the Executive and Advisory Councils held this day, the following preamble and resolution were adopted:

"Whereas it appears by the communication of Hon. Sanford B. Dole, President of the Provisional Government of the Hawaiian Islands, and Chairman of the Executive and Advisory Councils, and Minister of Foreign Affairs, dated August 19th, 1893, and by the medical certificate enclosed therein, that the said Sanford B. Dole is temporarily unable to attend to his official duties by reason of ill health,

Be it resolved, That Hon. Francis M. Hatch, Vice-President of the Provisional Government of the Hawaiian Islands, be by such disability of the President qualified and required to act in his stead as President of the Provisional Government, Chairman of the Executive and Advisory Councils, and Minister of Foreign Affairs until such disability shall be at an end. And such authority shall date from the said 19th day of August, 1893."

C. T. RODGERS,
Sec'y Executive and Advisory Councils.

Preparation

Cod Liver Oil.

It aims to cure Consumption, Hits the Mark, too, and it most effectually breaks up Colds, Coughs, Hoarseness and all Throat and Lung troubles that cause this disease.

It is natural logic to conclude that if WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION OF COD LIVER OIL has power to prevent Consumption, it surely is able to cure these lesser emergencies.

This vigor-making, fat producing preparation is Absolutely Tasteless, in so far as Cod Liver Oil is concerned. All you notice is a delightful flavor of Wild Cherry and Anise.

But the purest Norwegian Cod Liver Oil is there all the same. It is a great blood enricher. Best of all it is a natural food that in its stomachic effects, actually assists its own assimilation.

In Pulmonary or Bronchial troubles it is unequalled. No one doubts the value of Cod Liver Oil, but not every one is able to take it.

WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION

removes the nauseous objection and actually makes Cod Liver Oil palatable.
